

ABSTRACT

[0046] The present invention is an interspinous process implant with a selectably expandable spacer that can be placed between adjacent spinous processes.